HOSPITALITY... Unleashing the Church's Mission Potential

RIGHT NOW...there is mission potential everywhere you look. And not just in densely populated urban areas. In mid-sized and small towns. In rural farm regions. In suburbs. But it's going to take some shifts to connect with these mission opportunities. Philo Consulting Group will be kicking off a season of connection with Transylvania Presbytery, April 25-27, to help churches catch a vision for what is possible, and to discover how hospitality in your context could be the game-changer in your connection with your neighbors.

- How can you be more intentional about practicing hospitality?
- How can hospitality take your congregation into deeper life with God and with others?
- How can hospitality expand your mission impact?

The Church still has a mission...let's imagine together what God wants to do with and through us in this season!

Join us in prayer as we continue over the next few months to identify concrete opportunities for mission experiments in our presbytery.

Regional Cohorts are forming to work with consultants on some local experiments, and a Mission Team is forming to work with consultants to discern mission plans for intentional new initiatives in our Presbytery. Jesus proclaimed:

“As the Father has sent me, so I am sending you.”

We of the Transylvania Presbytery want to discover the everyday places and spaces to which God might be sending us. Looking forward to the adventures the Holy Spirit has in store!

Together in ministry,

Jay Mumper, chair
